Hello LNSC

Wow, what a party we had at the ACSC 2017 Summer Workshop that LNSC hosted July 14-16. All but one of the association Shag Clubs were in attendance and over 400 people were in attendance for the event. (The exact count was not available when this was written). I heard lots of complimentary comments about our club members and how friendly everyone was. Our club was well represented as we had over 50% of our members in attendance and working hard to make sure everyone had a great time and to insure everyone felt welcome.

Terry Hopper and Melanie Jones had a great plan put together for two great nights of dancing, a porch party, and a great meal on Saturday. The committee Chair persons all worked extremely hard to execute their committee plans which were put together for registration, vendors, photography, hospitality, auction items, advertising, entertainment (dance workshop, and special entertainment), and DJ's.

The registration of shaggers seemed to go very smoothly as everyone came in to pick up their arm bands and registration packets. Wanda Cavin and all her volunteers did a great job insuring that everything was ready when the first attendees arrived and answered event questions.

We had 8 vendors who had tables and displayed their merchandise for the attendees to browse and purchase. Thanks to Stella Duggins for the organization efforts and everyone that made themselves available to assist the vendors set up their areas and move the merchandise into place and break everything down when the event was over. This was a big chore in the heat but vendors were very appreciative of their efforts.

The decorations for the Ballroom were awesome. Thanks to Karen Giunta for spearheading the effort and all the people that worked for weeks putting these decorations together and all the people that helped put them in place at the Summer Workshop. Great job!!!!

Thanks to Dave McKenzie for taking lots of snapshots of everyone. We look forward to posting them in the near future. I am sure they will be great. There were others taking snapshots as well and have already been posted on social media.

We had two great hospitality events planned by Stan and Shirley Bush and their committee. They had some really tasty snacks with lots of cold beer and wine for the events. I noticed when we were introducing the Chair Persons on Saturday evening, there was quite a nice round of applause when they were introduced. Don Williams also had his 1941 Wurlitzer juke box ready to play at both hospitality events and it was a big hit with the crowd.

The DJ committee picked some great DJ's for the ballroom events both Friday and Saturday. Eddie Anderson and Robbie Leggett played some great tunes and really had the dance floor hopping most of the time. Our club DJ's (Donnie Meadows, Gene Hensley, and Curtis Treece) supported other events and did a great job as always spinning our favorite tunes.

The auction was very well planned and organized by Danny and Shay Thompson and their committee. There were lots of great items which had to be staged, categorized, listed and handed out to winners. I heard lots of great comments concerning the quality of the items in the auction and how well it was run and organized.

Del Meadows did a great job putting special entertainment together and was particularly successful in keeping a certain person from interrupting and kidnapping the star puppy dog again. The Dance Workshop was well attended and Sam and Lisa West did a very good job teaching all those shaggers learning the new step.

Many thanks to Terry and Melanie for all their hard work and dedication to to the planning, organizing and ultimately the success of this event. Thanks to all the chair persons and committee members for their time, effort, and detailed planning in making sure each of their assignments were carried out so smoothly. To all the other volunteers who worked to greet attendees and who supported all the committees to do anything where they were needed, we are truly grateful.

Looking forward to seeing everyone at the "Fish Fry" on August 5 at Cowan's Ford Country Club. Don't forget to contact Pam Bundy to get registered.

Taylor

To Lake Norman Shag Club,

I want to personally thank each of you for your hard work. A special thank you goes out to the committee chairs, you and your teams were stellar!

We hosted an event that raised the bar for what a Workshop should be! Our members were highly visible and proactive.

I heard nothing but praise for the Hospitality Rooms, Auction Rooms, Entertainment, DJ's, Vendors and Ballroom events. Our guest was thoroughly entertained and well taken care of.

The feedback from the SOS and ACSC board members was exemplary!

Last but not least, a big thank you goes out to Melanie for your hard work and dedication!

I know everyone is wanting to hear the results, however we are still settling up with our vendors and Embassy Suites. It looks like we will have the totals by the weekend!

Thanks again!
Terry

Philosophical Shaggers

The Pad was dilapidated on the day it opened in the mid-Fifties, and it stayed that way for thirty-nine summers. The interior of the place sort of fermented over the years. The rafters and upright supports became collage-like with graffiti. The scrawled signatures and initials of future banking executives, safecrackers, beauty queens, doctors, lawyers, and outlaws decorated the joint.

The Pad was a legendary mess. It was somewhat reminiscent of an old ship wreck which might have washed up after Hurricane Hazel and been appropriated by the dazed survivors a clubhouse. It was actually a garage of a wood-framed beach cottage which had been enclosed, probably with scrap lumber. The structural integrity of The Pad was always in the eye of the beholder. The city fathers of Ocean Drive perennially threatened to have the joint condemned. The Pad's beer license was under constant siege by state authorities. The very existence of the place seemed to violate the public trust.

The Pad was at once glamorous and gritty. Most accomplished dancers left footprints around the jukebox. For generations of Shaggers, The Pad was a temple of memory. As the temple was demolished years ago, much more than nails and timbers was carried away. One middle-aged woman stood in the street and wept. An entire population of dancers throughout the Southeast accepted the news with a sense of the inevitable. And yet, the reality of that minor demolition, long delayed and often postponed, came as a cerebral, subconscious earthquake.

The old joints and pavilions came and went like the carefree summers. And even if one day they were all demolished or washed out to sea, a philosophical Shagger would still have to keep and know forever the eyes of a girl he danced with after two a.m., thirty-nine years ago. That wild and free dancing female, who married and moved to Oklahoma, could still close her eyes and feel the breeze that climbed off the ocean and cooled the skin where it disappeared into her short shorts. The beach, the music, the joints and the Shag stayed with you, like the lights of Paris.

Thought this might be of interest to some people. I was asked not too long ago why some people can float and why some are just sinkers. I new muscle mass caused you to sink but did not know about bone density. In Parade this past Sunday, Marilyn vos Savant was asked this question. Below is her answer.

The ability to float varies with many factors, some of which are more important than others. People with a higher proportion of fat will float more easily, while those with heavier bones and more muscle mass will sink more readily. An yes, this means that women tend to float better than men. Thought this was interesting. I AM A FLOATER. Joan
